CHARDONNAY

2007

VINEYARD INFORMATION Our 525-acre Los Alamos estate vineyard in the heart of Santa Barbara County's sweeping hills is the sole provenance of our 2007 Chardonnay. The coastal influence and unique characteristics of this vineyard yield outstanding fruit full of complexity and flavor.

WINEMAKING The 2007 Chardonnay underwent partial malolactic fermentation, allowing the wine to retain crisp varietal characteristics of citrus and apple while imparting a smooth texture to the finished wine. The majority of the wine was then introduced to French oak, which contributed creamy caramel notes while the balance was aged in stainless steel, allowing the bright varietal characteristics to fully develop.

TASTING NOTES Our 2007 Main Street Winery Chardonnay displays the tropical flavors and great acidity typical of our Los Alamos Vineyard in Santa Barbara County. The silky finish is accented by spice notes.
